“Hi, I am Patty Brooks and Teresa Beaver. We are aunt Betty’s favorite nieces. That was a joke that we would have with aunt Betty competing on who was her favorite. She would tell Teresa she was her favorite, but then she would tell me I was her favorite. she was horrified when Teresa and I confronted her on who her favorite was. Betty was our favorite aunt even though she wasn’t related by blood. Her husband Bill was my mom’s brother and Teresa’s dad was Bill’s brother. We couldn’t ask for a more loving and caring aunt. She loved music and following Tyler Hughes and Oscar Harris’s career. She was so proud when Tyler named her the president of his fan club. She loved this one CD of Oscar’s band hello stranger. I always had it in my CD player in my car. The year they built the new high school we were told we could go down a side street to see the new build. we went down the street and decided to go down and turn around and come back and park. I turned on the CD player and it hadn’t started yet so I kept turning the volume up. Right as we get down to the end by the woods, the first song was hello stranger. which turned out to be the first words at full blast. Now keep in mind aunt Betty had her window down. She had the woods on her side and all of a sudden hello stranger screams out of my CD player. She thought it was somebody coming out of the woods yelling hello stranger at us. She jumped about a foot out of her seat. Every time I think of that, it makes me laugh. Not just a smile, but a good belly laugh. We both laughed about that for many years. Aunt Betty loved to sing funny nursery rhymes. One about a peanut sitting on a railroad track and getting hit by a train and turning into peanut butter. Another one was a monkey sitting on an elephant trunk. She would laugh at these as she sung them. Teresa has a video of aunt Betty singing both of those songs. If anyone would like for Teresa to send them to you, let her know. We both loved our aunt Betty, and she will always be in our hearts. She lived a good life with God by her side. I will always be grateful for her kindness of opening her home to me when I traveled home here in Virginia. Love you with all my heart.

“ *Dear Dan and Betty's family, Diane and I were so very saddened to hear of our "Sweet Girl" passing away. We had a lively conversation with Betty about 8 years ago, and shared memories and lots of laughs. She was a loving cousin and friend...and very wise. Big hugs and kisses from us to you. “ Our deepest sympathies to all the family. Betty was a lifelong friend of our family especially our mother, Tootsie. I will miss those late night phone conversations as she reminisced and shared stories of hers and Mom’s lifetime journeys and friendship. She was a treasure to many. Our love and prayers for the family.

Betty, was a dear friend to so many. When I moved up the street from her many years ago, she was the first to come to welcome us. She was such a loving person not just by me but by my son and grandson. Betty, always made Hunter, my grandson feel special. He and my son, Gene, loved her very much. Rest in peace sweet lady, God surely has a special Angel with him now. We all love you. Violet and Family
